Mrs. Carlotta Bean

After some years of failing health, Mrs. Carlotta Bean, widow of Alfred W. Bean, passed away at her home, opposite the fair grounds, May 25.

She was born in Virginia 72 years ago and resided near Middle Intervale in Bethel some years before the family came to South Paris, where she was a member of the Royal Neighbors.

One son, Maurice Bean of South Paris, survives her, also grandchildren and great grandchildren.

The funeral was held Friday afternoon, attended by Rev. Phineas A. Allen of Norway. Burial was in Norway Pine Grove Cemetery.

Mrs. John MacPhee

Mrs. Jennie M., wife of John MacPhee, died suddenly Sunday morning, June 5, at her home on Bret Hill, Paris, at the age of 60 years. She had been in her usual health, and was at the village on Saturday.

DAIRYING IN OXFORD COUNTY

The dairy enterprise on most Oxford County farms can be thought of as serving as one end of a balance wheel, to be increased or decreased in inverse proportion to the combined weight of other enterprises being carried. According to the 1925 census, there were 13,922 cows on 2,921 farms or 3.5 cows per farm. On 1154 or 40 percent of the farms in the county there were 7,314 cows in herds of 4 cows or over, or an average of 6.17 cows per farm. The average number of cows in the towns of Buckfield, Hebron, Norway, and Paris, an important orchard area, is only 4.3. In comparison with these figures, there are twenty dairy-man herds in the county, and having more than 2,000 inhabitants, who keep a total of 220 cows or an average of 11 cows per farm. The farm survey made in 1923 shows 194 herds of 9-12 cows and 92 herds of 12 cows or over in the county.

There are fair returns to be had in the keeping of dairy cows, depending largely on the quality of the cows kept. From Dairy Herd Improvement records kept in the county in 1924, the average value of milk products, not counting the value of the livestock receipts, was $151.10 per cow. The average total feed cost on these same cows was $93.05, leaving a return above feed cost of $58.05 per cow. This is an average of $1.79 for each dollar expended for feed. A large part of the better dairymen in the county receive a labor return of $65 to $75 per cow. The dairy business then is returning at the rate of from four to five dollars per day for labor, figuring labor at 15 cent hour days per cow for the year.

We know Mr. Lakin's better to stay. Death—Which is better we cannot tell. Or whether 'tis better to be going away—In an instant and be patient; for sure must know.
